

January

A Chime for the New Year

1834

Sarah Flower Adams

Eliza Flower

2 SOLO

He looks but cold - ly upon us now;—
He smiles-though faint - ly the sun - shine gleam,—

7 CHOIR SOLO

— Yet is he kind:— He has bles-sings be- neath—
— 'Tis sun - shine still;— Though no more— in li -

11 CHOIR

— his cloak of snow, As we shall find:
— quid mu - sic stream, The gur - gling rill;

14 SOLO

The ti - ny spears_ that yet have power To guard the glo - wing
There's a hur-ried gush that is borne a - long, From the ro - bin's throat_sweet

18 CHOIR SOLO

cro-cus flower,And the snow-drop fair_ (That li - ving pearl in its mount of green,The fount of song, So fresh, so clear._ O light and mu-sic,we well can bear The

23 CHOIR

Spring'sown de - li-cate vir - gin queen) Are trea - sured_ there._
fal - ling snow and the chil - ly air,_ If you_ are_ here!

27

Hi-ther, hi-ther, come all,_ and bring,come all and bringTo the year's_first born a wel-co-ming,Bringto the year's first born_ a wel-co-ming.

32

2